Times of the tide are taken from the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey tables. The tides at Honolulu and Hilo occur about one hour earlier than at Honolulu. THE EXHIBIT AT WORLD'S FAIR

SIGHTSEERS PAUSE AND LOOK WITH INTEREST ON THIS WONDERFUL DISPLAY.

The skin and fur exhibit, and the forest scene, at the west end of the Palace of Forestry, Fish and Game, invariably cause the sightseers to pause and look with interest. Here is shown the manner in which fur bearing animals are trapped. The bear trap is not chained to an immovable object, but to a small section of a log, about three feet long. When the bear is caught in the trap, he would pull his foot off in his attempt to release himself if he could not pull the object along with him.

In one of the glass cases of this exhibit is a reindeer fawn overcoat valued at several thousand dollars. The coat is made up of the furs of reindeer fawns only a few days old. All the skins match perfectly in color. It is of double thickness, being the same inside as out. It has the warmth of a much heavier fur coat and it sheds water like rubber.

Probably the next most interesting thing in the exhibit is a grizzly bear, which measures fourteen feet. Naturalist claim that the grizzly bear is the only animal that has no fear of man.

There are three skins of Manchurian tigers that attract unusual attention, owing to their size. The largest of the three measures over 14 feet.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the fact that the official photographer of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition and his able corps of assistants are constantly at work searching out the most beautiful scenes and most interesting exhibits to be found at the Exposition in order to secure them for our series of World's Fair Art Portfolios.

The Forest City series is worth many times the trouble and the money it will cost you to obtain it. The views are the product of the highest development of the photographers' and printers' art and the descriptions are most graphic and interesting, as well as absolutely accurate, having been written by Walter B. Stevens, Secretary of the Exposition.

One of the thirty portfolios composing the series will be issued each week and one coupon with ten cents, to cover cost of handling and mailing will secure any number as it comes out.

Don't fail to get every number if you desire a complete pictorial and descriptive history of this great historical event.
